PINK BEASTS

BY FERNANDO LAPOSSE

The Miami Design District's 2019 Neighborhood Commission features thousands of long pink sisal tassels suspended through the trees guiding visitors to discover an extended family of oversized pink sloths hung from trees and arches throughout the neighborhood. Sculptural hammocks hanging between palm trees feature long unbraided sisal manes, updating an otherwise traditional Mayan design, invite visitors to slow down.

SHE COMES FIRST

BY JILL C. WEISBERG

Situated in Jade Alley, "SHE COMES FIRST" is a site specific public art installation by Jill C. Weisberg honoring breast cancer awareness. Using feminist text and thousands of round pink reflective sequins, this unique installation explores the idea of shifting context by the means of double entendre. By integrating type with eye-catching materials, "SHE COMES FIRST" intends to evoke a strong emotional response and dialogue about equality.

JADE ALLEY

SURROUNDED BY SPACE

BY DABSMYLA

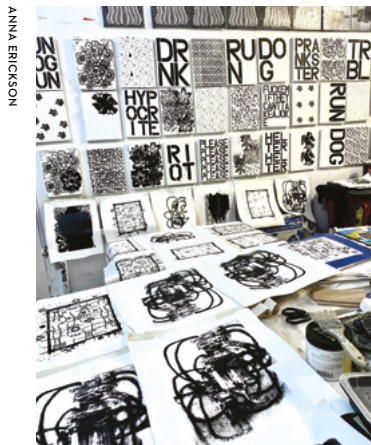

Los Angeles based husband-and-wife visual artists, DABSMYLA newest mural, Surrounded by Space, is a deeper exploration of their current series of garden scapes. Combining their psychedelic landscapes and surreal flower beds, their shared design language allow them to blur the boundaries between real life and dreamscape. Inspired by the original artwork created for their Perrier collaboration, this hand-painted acrylic mural further enhances the sense of whimsy and grandeur found throughout their work. The mural had been graciously enabled by the support of Perrier through the brand's ARTXTRA program

VIRGIL ABLOH SCULPTURE

This Fall, right in time for Art Basel Miami Beach and Design Miami/, come check out Virgil's sculpture of a Sunoco beacon positioned as a sinking ship which will be located on Paseo Ponti. While this work has been made specifically for an outdoor location, an earlier iteration was part of Abloh's "PAY PER VIEW" solo exhibition at Kaikai Kiki Gallery in Tokyo, commenting on the role of advertising and mass communication in our culture.

DUCK DUCK BY HARMONY KORINE

Best known for Kids, Spring Breakers, and most recently, The Beach Bum, legendary filmmaker Harmony Korine premieres his latest short film, Duck Duck – shot through Spectacles 3, Snapchat's wearable 3D camera. Korine experiments with Spectacles 3 as a cinematic tool, overlaying augmented reality onto three-dimensional scenes to weave a surreal, immersive narrative. Harmony Korine transforms Miami into an unbridled dreamscape of sound and color in Duck Duck – exploring the emerging disciplines of wearable cinema, augmented reality, and spontaneous storytelling. The film's hybrid reality is brought to life through custom 3D Effects developed for the film, which will be available for all Spectacles 3 creators after its premiere. Witness Duck Duck in person on this exhibit's bespoke circular filmscreen, and experience the psychedelic world of the film in the surrounding multisensory showroom. Presented by Spectacles and Snap Inc.

DESIGN

IS CELEBRATING ITS FIFTEENTH EDITION IN THE JUST COMPLETED PRIDE PARK ON MIAMI BEACH.

The curatorial concept that guides the fair, Elements: Water, focuses on the crises as well as the beauty that define this essential element that is increasingly threatening – and under threat.

Highlights of exhibitions of historic and contemporary design from the most prestigious design galleries worldwide include a timeless wood and hand-knotted cane sofa and armchair set from the innovator of modern Brazilian design Joaquim Tenreiro at Mercado Moderno.

Friedman Benda presents a booth dedicated to Miami-born artist Daniel Arsham that transforms the space into part domestic setting and part kunstkammer inspired by the interior of his own Long Island home. This fictionalized environment is also in dialogue with the modernist architect Norman Jaffe and houses pieces Arsham would want to live with every day.

Fernando Laposse, on view at AGO Projects, has worked with craftswomen from the Yucatán to create benches and tables sustainably dyed pink using the cochineal insect native to central Mexico. The Miami Design District has also chosen the London-based Mexican designer for their 2019 Neighborhood Commission. Laposse's pink sisal hammocks, tassels, and sloths can be seen hanging throughout the neighborhood as well as in their exhibition space located just inside the fair's entrance.

Harry Allen Design has an interactive installation where visitors can receive a detailed scan of their face that is then 3-D printed in ceramic. Collectors decide the type of vessel they would like to create, have their likenesses scanned, and further customize the work with glazes and finishes, including 9K gold and platinum.

Broached Commissions, the fair's first exhibitor from Australia, debuts new work "recalling" design from periods that have fallen out of favor--in this instance the Victorian era--correcting it with a contemporary aesthetic with the help of world-renowned graphic artist John Warwicker.

The Curio program includes an exhibition of traditional African works of art from 1920 to 1960 from Kerr Fine Art, the first time this material has ever appeared at the fair. Throughout the week there will be a shaman and local musician present using some of the objects on view to create music inside the booth.
